

William (Bill) Magro is an Intel Fellow and Intel's Chief Technologist for HPC software. In this role, he serves as the technical lead and strategist for Intel's high-performance computing (HPC) software and provides HPC software requirements for Intel product roadmaps, covering both mainstream and high-end HPC.

Bill has worked in the field of HPC for over 25 years. He joined Intel in 2000 with the acquisition of Kuck & Associates Inc. (KAI). Prior to KAI, he worked as a post-doctoral fellow and staff member at the Cornell Theory Center at Cornell University in New York and as a graduate student at NCSA.

Bill has a Bachelor's degree in applied and engineering physics from Cornell University, and a Master's degree and Ph.D. in physics, both from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
