

Heloise Meyer completed her BSc, BSc (Hons) and MSc qualifications with distinction at the University of Pretoria. She began her part-time study towards a PhD Computer Science degree in 2015 also at the University of Pretoria, while working as a Researcher and Software Developer in the Cyber Warfare Research Group. In 2019, Heloise completed her PhD thesis, with a focus on identifying the authenticity of smartphone data. Currently, she is working towards becoming an established Cybersecurity Specialist within the Information Cyber and Security Centre at the CSIR. Her interests include digital forensics, mobile device security and cybersecurity.